There is a possibility, too, that he cannot influence a majority of the Senate, and that the bill will be placed before that body in its right light by an able champion of the movement. When the Senate is once given to understand that Los Angeles, a freeholder city, wishes only to be on the same plane with respect to consolidation with cities organized under the general law, the legislators will have a clearer view of the situation.

Should California persist the worst that would probably happen would be a disaster. The disaster would be the two countries. Japan might feel humiliated at such legislation, disappointed, and even resentful, but when you get down to the actualities of the affair nothing to which the Californians propose to do is a disaster. It is a reasonable excuse for going to war. It is the activities and privileges of aliens in the right of every government. It is an essential part of the sovereignty of power. Nor is it a just cause of war. If aliens be expelled from a country let alone the mere denying of them or

MAY ROBSON SAW NOTHING.

Actress Traveled With Mrs. Gould and Farnum.

They Drank Cocktails, Fizz and Cordials.

Never Embraced nor Acted With Improperly.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Many statements concerning the friendship existing between Mrs. Howard Gould and Dustin Farnum, the actor, whose wife recently divorced him, and of Mrs. Gould's taste for cocktails, champagne, candy and soda and whisky and soda, are contained in a long deposition made by Miss May Robson, an actress, who for the past year, has been appearing in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary."

"She is the wife of Dr. Augustus H. Brown and her deposition was filed in the County Clerk's office today as a part of the record in the suit for a separation brought by Katherine Clemens Gould against Howard Gould."

Miss Robson's testimony was taken before the trial on an application made by Charles J. Shearn, counsel for Mrs. Gould, who stated that when the trial of the suit actually began Miss Robson would not be available as a witness. Justice Schurcy thereupon appointed G. Hampton Dogerty as a referee to take the testimony of the actress.

At the outset of the examination Miss Robson said her name was "May Brown, or May Brown-Robson, or May Robson-Brown, or May Robson."

"You know I answer to all these names, although I am generally known as May Robson Brown."

Miss Robson testified that in October, 1902, she was playing at the Francis Wilson Company in Philadelphia, and that during that engagement Mrs. Gould invited her to take supper at the Bellevue-Stratford. She accepted, and there met Mrs. Gould, Miss Sells and Miss Sheaf. When they finished their oysters, Dustin Farnum appeared.

"On the following day Miss Robson said she again met Mrs. Gould, and had something to eat with her that night also. She could not remember, however, whether Mr. Farnum was with her that night, although she thought he was."

Next day the party, including Farnum, went to Atlantic City in a motor car, and stayed at the new hotel, the Ocean House. As Mrs. Gould had a headache she stayed in her room while the rest of the party went out on the board walk. At night they all dined in Mrs. Gould's room. Miss Robson was seated next to Mrs. Gould and she did not remember.

"Now, if any of these occasions that you have referred to did you witness any misconduct between Mrs. Gould and Mr. Farnum, or with her that night?"

"Why, I saw absolutely nothing that was not ladylike and correct in every particular. I saw what I mean. It was perfectly all right; it was just like any other lady would behave with any other gentleman. They were very friendly. We were all friendly together."

"Did you observe any lewd or lascivious conduct on Mrs. Gould's part on any of those occasions?"

"No."

"Did you see any conduct on their part on any of those occasions other than the ordinary conduct of a lady and gentleman?"

"No."

"Have you ever seen Mrs. Gould intoxicated?"

"No."

"What have you observed as to Mrs. Gould's speech with Mr. Farnum, with reference to whether or not it was refined?"

"It was always refined."

"Did you see Mrs. Gould in her cross-examination asked?"

"On any occasion you dined with Mrs. Gould did she drink anything but water?"

"Oh, yes."

"TWO COCKTAILS."

"What else?"

"One or more."

"I have seen her take two, perhaps one or two. A glass of champagne or something like that with dinner."

"Cordials afterwards?"

"Yes."

"The usual brandy and soda in the evening or whisky and soda?"

"Sometimes."

"Mr. Nichol asked her whether she had ever heard any discussion about a rise given by Mrs. Gould to Farnum."

"No, absolutely I have not. You stagger me," said the witness.

"No a pin."

"Not a thing."

"BIBLE DISPUTE SETTLED."

Montreal Lodge of Masons Admits That Virginia Lodge Has Washington Copy.

[Associated Press Day Report.]

FREDERICKSBURG (Va.) Jan. 21.—The Fredericksburg lodge of Masons, which possessed the Bible on which Washington was entered, passed and raised, and also records showing when he was given his degrees in that lodge, has been somewhat annoyed recently by a story which was given wide publicity to the effect that the lodge of Antiquity of Montreal, Can., is the possessor of the Bible on which Washington was obligated as a Mason.

In order to clear up the matter, C. H. Howard, Past Master of the local lodge, wrote to the Montreal lodge, and has received a reply in which it is shown that the story was unauthorized.

"We do not deny the claim of Fredericksburg lodge," said the secretary of the Montreal lodge, "having initiated, passed, and raised your illustrious first President, George Washington. You have the records and also the Bible, as shown by Brother S. J. Quinn, your P. M. In his historical sketch of your lodge."

The Montreal lodge has in its archives a historic Bible, known as "Frederick's Bible," which it believed was used at a Masonic meeting which Washington attended also. The time and place of the meeting are not known.

The Bible was printed in London in 1783.

LIFE OF TURKISH RULER IN RU-MORED DANGER.

Since Discovery of Plot to Overthrow Constitution, Young Turk Fear Attempt Will Be Made to Remove Abdul Hamid from Throne. European Powers Suspected.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The guards about the Tildis Khiosk, the Sultan's palace, were doubled today in fear of an attempt on the life of the Sultan as the result of the discovery of a conspiracy to overthrow the constitution, involving 30,000 reactionaries throughout the empire.

The government also is heavily reinforcing all garrisons where the conspirators are believed to be most numerous.

The discovery revived the sentiment that Turkish liberty is not secure as long as Abdul Hamid is on the throne. More than 100 arrests have been made and the young Turks are trying to extort from the prisoners proof of the charge that two European powers had promised to support the reactionaries in case the conspiracy was successful.

The discovery of the plot resulted from the fact that a letter addressed to Abdul Rahman, a government employee and one of the plotters, was delivered to an ardent Young Turk of the same name.

The plans involved the seizure of the grand vizier and president of the chamber of deputies and forcing the Sultan to dissolve Parliament and annul the constitution.

PLOT AGAINST FERDINAND. WANTED BULGARIAN Czar.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

BUDAPEST, Jan. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Numerous arrests are being made at Sofia, according to messages received in connection with a plot against the life of Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria.

No details of the plot have been received.

The discovery of the conspiracy, however, has retarded rumors of further international complications in the Balkans.

STOLE BLANK CHECKS. Army Captain Must Serve Two Years for Taking Paper on Which He Got Money.

(Associated Press Day Report.)

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—Judge Landis's rulings in the case of Daniel F. Keller, who was sentenced to two years in the prison at Fort Leavenworth for the larceny of six blank quartermaster's checks, were affirmed by the United States Appellate Court today.

Keller, a captain in the army, was convicted of the theft of the checks on which the government set a value of 1 cent each.

Although Keller was alleged to have secured several thousands of dollars by forging the checks, technically many difficulties stood in the way of trying him on a charge of forgery and the charge of larceny of the blank checks was therefore made.

In his appeal Keller argued that the checks had no monetary value, and that hence a charge of forgery did not lie. Keller is now serving his sentence.

TAFT MEETS ROCKEFELLER. Manager of Bonair Hotel Introduces Guests and They Exchange Informal Greetings.

(Associated Press Day Report.)

AUGUSTA (Ga.) Jan. 21.—Although Wm. H. Taft and John D. Rockefeller have been guests of the Bonair Hotel since Monday, they first met last night at a banquet. Rockefeller had for some time been holding an informal reception at which the arriving guests had been eager attendants. When Mr. Taft arrived, he established himself a short distance from Mr. Rockefeller in the hotel assembly room. At once the crowd began to desert the oil magnate and assemble around Mr. Taft.

Mr. Rockefeller was taken by the hand by C. A. Woods, manager of the hotel, and formally presented to Mr. Taft.

"How are you, Mr. Rockefeller?" was the salutation of Mr. Taft. "I got around the golf links in 18 today."

"I wanted to hear you speak this afternoon," was the reply by Mr. Rockefeller, "but I could not get near enough."

The Bible was printed in London in 1783.

BIG INSURANCE SUIT.

Widow of Joshua Burdette Seeks to Recover Half Million Dollars in Policies.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

MUSKOGEE (Okla.) Jan. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Susie M. Burdette, widow of the late Joshua Burdette, who was killed in the explosion of the Burdette estate, has entered suit in the United States Court here to recover half a million dollars in insurance upon the life of Joshua Burdette against the Penn Mutual Insurance Company of Philadelphia, the American National Insurance Company of Galveston, The Provident Savings Life Assurance Society of New York, the Mutual Life of New York and the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York.

Joshua Burdette, reputed to be a very wealthy man, was the victim of an unknown assassin three years ago. At the time of his death Mrs. Burdette was in Muskogee. Burdette's body was found on the well curb. Lying near the body was the revolver with which Burdette was killed.

For a time it was believed Burdette had committed suicide but an investigation of his business affairs revealed no cause for such action and the assassination theory was officially adopted. The insurance companies first fought the payments on the suicide theory, but now assert that in answering the examiner's questions applying for policies Burdette made false replies.

Why?
Some reasons why the Farrand-Cecilian Metal Action Player Piano is superior to all others
The action is a point of excellence which emphasizes the superiority of the Farrand-Cecilian Metal Action Player Piano. Wooden actions are affected by climatic changes—hence frequent repairs are necessary. The Farrand-Cecilian metal action is proof against heat and cold, dampness and dryness. It not only insures greater durability but gives a more human touch, allowing the player to express greater individuality than with any other player mechanism. We have Farrand-Cecilian Metal Action Player Pianos, wood and metal actions, at $450, $750 and $850, also the Schooner-Cecilian, with metal action at $1050.
Sixty-five and eighty-eight note models now on exhibition—third floor. Terms if desired.

Free Music With Players
To every Player Piano purchaser we give a

DOUBLE PLAY BY DEPUTIES.

Bank President Taber Must Face Charges.

Cashier Williamson Arrested
at the Same Time.

Great Sum Involved Through Deposits Taken.

Homer G. Taber, former president of the West Side Bank of Los Angeles, former president of the Lincoln National Bank of Searchlight, Nev., and now president of a San Diego bank and trust company, was taken into custody in the latter city last evening, according to word received by the Sheriff, and will be brought here and then taken to Piche, the seat of Lincoln county, Nevada, to answer to nineteen indictments found by the grand jury, and said to involve approximately $750,000.
It is only these nineteen indictments in a sister State which saves Taber from having to face a serious charge in this county of embezzling $40,000 worth of telephone bonds from U. S. Grant, Jr., of San Diego. This transaction was completed when he was president of the West Side Bank in this city, and according to the story,

STARTS IN TO KILL.

Large Coyote Reaches Town With Carload of Steers from Imperial Valley.

The first unwelcome importation from the Imperial Valley arrived yesterday. It was an enormous gray coyote, which traveled, by queer chance, with a carload of steers brought for slaughter. When the car reached the yards of the Hauser Packing Company on Washington street, beyond the city limits, and was opened, Mr. Coyote rushed out.
At first the stock yard employees thought it was a new kind of dog, but the animal soon undeceived them. He dashed into a pen of sheep and began to kill. A valiant shepherd dog rushed to the rescue and was soon badly mangled.
One of the men ran to the office for a gun, and when he could get a fair mark, shot the gigantic creature as he stood over a bleeding sheep. The coyote gave a few kicks and died.
It was the largest specimen ever seen here, much heavier in every way than the variety found in the foothills. Everything grows larger in the Imperial Valley. The carcass was on exhibition all day, and its skin may be made into a doormat for the company's office.

ORATORY FOR PRIZES.
A large crowd gathered last night at the annual Home Oratorical contest, held under the auspices of the Occidental Academy. The prizes were hotly fought for by Fern Petty, Paul Lane, S. Lientz, Edwin Anderson and Chester Bradbeer. The first prize was awarded Fern Petty, No. 449 Pasadena avenue, who spoke on "The Immigration Problem, as Menace or Opportunity." The second prize went to Edwin Anderson, whose subject was "The Passing of the Indian."

CONQUERED.

Intrepid Explorer Killed in Wilds of Thibet.

Maj. Burnham Confirms the Tragic Report.

Once Fought Thrilling Duel
in Abyssinia.

J. H. Brooke, one of the world's most promising young explorers, a man well known in Los Angeles and Pasadena, where he had many friends and associates, has met a terrible death at the hands of the natives of Thibet, according to authentic reports received here yesterday.
At the head of an expedition of exploration in the most dreaded and inaccessible region of the forbidden country, young Brooke went with the dauntless courage of his people, willing to risk his life in the interests of geological research.
His party, of which he was the only white man, consisted of a band of Hindoo guards, a number of pack carriers, and a few mule drivers. What manner of torture was meted out to him may never be known. His own men may have turned upon him, stolen the rifles with which they

FAIR-REACHING.

Many Lands Represented in Maze of Color.

Bazaar of All Nations for Sister Country.

Worthy Benefit Affair Has Good Beginning.

The Bazaar of All Nations for the benefit of the earthquake sufferers had an auspicious opening last night, notwithstanding the rain.
Turner Hall was a maze of color. The ceiling was massed with the flags of every country, while the double tier of booths and the front of the balcony carried the same color scheme to the floor, making the interior like the arch of a great rainbow. And the floor itself was gay in color, with the costumes of hundreds of pretty girls.
The nations represented in the booths were Italy, France, Japan, China, Mexico, Denmark, Holland, Germany, Hungary and the United States. Other lands were represented by individuals. The crowd was a happy one, and the musical programme was an unusually good one.
Mayor Harper made a brief address,

Types of Many Peoples in the Bazaar of All Nations, Which Opened Last Night at Turner Hall. This flashlight photograph, made for The Times by Del Beato, shows all the participants in the unique affair arranged by the Liberal Alliance for the benefit of the Italian earthquake sufferers. Mayor Harper stands in the center of the group at the front.

IF I WERE THE MAYOR OF LOS ANGELES.

BY A EIAS CHURL.

Having been asked by The Times what would be done about things, if I were Mayor, I take this delicate way of answering the question.
One of the first things I would do would be to close the City Hall, and move the seat of government to the City Club luncheon room.
I think I should also discharge the City Council. Instead of having a City Council, I would have one from the City Club read a paper on the Des Moines Idea and then we would call for a rising vote and thus settle any question of government that might come up.
I, as Mayor, would naturally sit at the head of the table, and when the black coffee came on, I would announce my vetoes, in accordance with applause. The cocktail-mixers would be barred from applauding.
The City Hall is rather a dingy place, anyhow, and filled with most objectionable persons; so I think every one would be glad of the change.
Furthermore, every one knows that luncheons are much pleasanter than Council meetings. You can "put down" more vice at a luncheon—if the menu is properly prepared.
This, of course, is only for the calm-er routine of government.
I recognize that times of stress must come into any one's administration. At such times, I would hunt up some one from Des Moines, Galveston or Oklahoma and ask the Municipal League to please issue cards to strictly desirable persons, and we would have a meeting and ask one another where vice was, then we would vote on a resolution and that would be all there was to that.
At all times of special doubt and danger, I would ask somebody like Mr. Haynes to please read a paper to the Friday Morning Club and politely request the ladies to please pass resolutions about something.
If the opposition were continued, I would ask Francis J. Heney to come down and bully everybody; and if this failed, I should telegraph to Des Moines. You can see that I am a person not without resources.

Our present charter being clearly deficient, I should at once adopt a new one, week-by-week or the referendum. Having thrust aside the politician who has been put in to temporarily hold the place, we will then select some retiring but able professional man—like Doc Howton. I think that I should prefer to be one of the recall mayors myself.
I doubt if it would be exactly wise to state so much in plain terms in the charter, but we would have it plainly understood, all the same, that we would have these recall elections every week—or the referendum.
The polls would be open every Monday. Sometimes a bargain matinee on Saturday for a bond issue.
You must consider that sometimes there might not be many fellows at the city club luncheons when things were decided; in which case we might want to refer to the people.
Regarding vice, it is necessary to say that I should not countenance it. No, I should put an end to vice—the other fellow vice.
At one time I thought I should demand a strict Sunday-closing law; but several conferences with the advertising agents of the theaters who are still sore, convinces me that Sunday closing is a mistake; especially as regards theaters.
But I say: "Down with every form of vice that doesn't count any advantage."
As to methods, I should first consult with those who understand the Des Moines Idea, of course; but in a general way, I should telegraph to Des trivial offense, and had been condemned to death by the scourge.

Brooke, who was present, interfered in the interest of fair play.
He was told to attend to his own affairs, and as a last resort challenged the best swordsman in the Abyssinian army to a duel. The winner was to have the condemned slave as a prize.
Brooke fought the Abyssinian to a standstill, and, finally, after wounding him three times, managed to tear his sword from his hand. The slave was freed.
"Brooke was a great friend of my brother," said Homer Blick of Pasadena, last night. "They were together in Africa on a tour of exploration, and my brother naturally had a good opportunity to study the character of this remarkable young man. He had

Japan was represented by two booths, one for the sale of carves and the other a tea room; the French booth was filled with many beautiful works of art; the Mexican booth, with ancient pottery, and a second one for the sale of flowers; Denmark had a display of stationery and toilet articles; Holland, soft drinks and ice cream; Germany had a candy booth, a coffee booth and a third filled with all kinds of eatables; China sold tea, cakes and chop suey, and a large assortment of useful articles; a Hungarian kitchen sold

GERMAIN RESIGNS FROM LEAGUERS.

WHEN the Municipal League's recall petitions appear they will be minus the name of Eugene Germain, one of the old members of the league and a member of its Executive Committee. As the petitions are not to be circulated until Saturday, it is likely that the place on the committee will be filled by the appointment of some one else, as Mr. Germain yesterday, in a dramatic scene, denounced the league and its methods, and tendered his resignation.
Mr. Germain protested against the action of the committee in using his name in calling a meeting to recall Mayor Harper. At the meeting yesterday he protested against the use of his name again, and when the president, J. O. Koepfli, became involved in an argument with him, Mr. Germain wrote out his resignation and quit in disgust.
In protesting against the use of his name, he said he deplored the step that was putting the league into small politics, and exhorted the members to first cast the beam out of their own eyes.

"I know you all," said Mr. Germain, "and I know that some of you are not as good as those you condemn."
The climax was involved in personalities, and was terminated when Mr. Germain's resignation was presented. The directors first refused to accept it, and told Mr. Germain they would wait forty-eight hours for him to withdraw it.
But they evidently changed their minds, for Mr. Koepfli said last night that the resignation had been accepted, but the place not filled.
It is understood that other members of the Executive Committee, some of whom had little voice in the preliminary steps of the recall meeting, are regretting that the league has been led into a "recall" fight to advance personal grievances, and they have tried to discourage its prosecution.
Mayor Harper, who is the object of recall wrath, received scores of messages yesterday promising assistance in defeating the recall petition. It will take 8000 signatures to secure an election. Most voters remember that there was a special bond election January 4, and there is to be a special charter amendment election February 2; and they do not want to make special elections a regular monthly thing.

TO GUATEMALA WITHIN YEAR.

Government and Railroad Officials to Meet.

Conference Will Be Held in Los Angeles.

Only Twenty-five-Mile Gap Now Remains.

The twenty-five-mile gap between Tapachula, Mex., on the Guatemalan border, and the present terminus of the Guatemalan Central, will be closed within a very short time, according to officials of the Pan-American Railway.

Whether this will be done by a continuation of the Pan-American into Guatemala or by the Guatemalan Central, which holds a concession to the Soconusco River, the international border, has not been determined, but through connection will be made with Guatemala City during the year.

Negotiations are in progress between the Pan-American and the Guatemalan government, which is said to control the Guatemalan Central, and prominent officials of that republic are expected in Los Angeles in February, and then the matter will be definitely decided.

If the Guatemalan road decides to relinquish its concession and let the Pan-American build the uncompleted portion of the line it will be necessary to form an entirely new company for this purpose, as the policy of Guatemala is against permitting lines under government ownership.

For the same reason, the Mexican government would object to the Guatemalan Central building across the river to make connection with the Pan-American, and it is not unlikely that a new company will be formed and the necessary permission of both governments secured to bridge the river.

There has been no additional mileage or construction work since the Pan-American reached Tapachula, but the company is actively replacing the temporary bridges, sidings, culverts and the like with permanent work. The track is standard gauge throughout, the bridges are of the latest design, modeled for strength and durability. The piers are all of heavy granite, taken from the vast mountains of that state opened up by the Pan-American in Mexico. Bridges are of steel and granite with a few exceptions, where they are reinforced by concrete.

All the culverts are of heavy masonry and laid for heavy use. The depots and other buildings are all of brick, with stucco exterior, patterned after those of the Salt Lake in California. The mission style architecture and the same character of building is followed everywhere, the only difference being in size.

Shops are being put in and round-houses installed, and the line being put into first-class condition to take care of its traffic.

President and General Manager J. M. Neeland will leave for Mexico City, and thence for a trip over the line. President D. M. Doak will follow him within a short time.

A six-day service is maintained over the first half of the Pan-American out from Gamboa, formerly San Gerónimo, and a tri-weekly schedule over the remainder of the line.

Stockton-to-Fresno Motors. Within a few weeks it is expected that gasoline motor service will be in effect between Fresno and Stockton on the Espee. The distance is 146 miles. The schedule is not yet announced, but it is expected that a car will leave Stockton about 7 a. m. and one leave Fresno at 5 or 6 p. m. Two cars will be run.

Nothing Known Here. Both Traffic Manager Alberger and General Manager Ryan of the Tonopah and Tidewater say that they have no advice as to any extension from Goldfield to Ely, as announced in New York dispatch recently. They are inclined to discredit the news, but know nothing either way beyond the press dispatches.

Superintendents Go Home. The conference of superintendents of the Santa Fé west of Albuquerque, which was held here the fore part of the week, adjourned yesterday and the visitors have returned home. Details relating to division work were discussed and nothing of particular importance to the public taken up. Those attending were J. R. Hitchcock, San Bernardino; R. H. Tuttle, Needles; E. J. Gibson, Winslow, and J. W. Walker, Fresno.

May Be Espee. Corona is puzzling over just who is trying to secure a right of way into that city. It was said that the Pacific Electric was behind the attempt, but this is denied at the local office. Some years ago a line was surveyed and small grade finished by the China railroad people, southeast from China to Corona, in the days when railroads were booming and talked of on all sides. Work was abandoned as far back as 1887, and nothing has been done since then.

Now surveys are said to be running along this route, and a transcontinental railroad men the opinion prevails that the Espee is behind the work, as it already has a line from Pomona into China, and would be the only company in a position to use the old grade without heavy expense. The land north of Corona is undeveloped, but that immediately around the town and south of it is very rich, in a highly developed state and would afford a good revenue, it is said, to such a branch. Southern Pacific officials here claim to have no knowledge of any such plans.

Protecting Track. The Santa Fé has just completed a considerable amount of grade work on the line between Corona and Los Angeles to protect the track from floods or washouts during the rainy season.

Railroad Notes. W. F. Buck, general superintendent of motive power, Santa Fé, arrived yesterday from Chicago and will be here for several days on a business and pleasure trip.

I. L. Hibbard, general superintendent of the Santa Fé west of Albuquerque, is on an inspection trip. The tourist travel grows heavier with each day, according to reports from the transcontinental line. Wednesday night the California Limited of the Santa Fé brought 110, and last night 112 came in. Yesterday the Limited left Chicago in two sections, and no let-up is anticipated. The other roads all report travel exceedingly heavy.

John Ryan, general manager of the Tonopah and Tidewater, is in the city for a couple of days.

T. R. Alberger, traffic manager of the T. and T., arrived yesterday from San Francisco and will leave today for a short trip to the Goldfield and Springdale mining districts.

FOR DEVELOPMENT OF GREAT HARBOR.

For the interests of each that they be under one government. Without an opportunity to consolidate their future growth, development and welfare will be seriously hampered and restricted. The resolutions adopted are: "That the law as it now stands creates a hardship upon cities governed by freeholder charters, not suffered by cities organized under the general law, and the public welfare and needs now demand that such discrimination be abolished, and the law so amended that two or more cities governed by freeholder charters may consolidate, and that a city governed by a freeholder charter may be consolidated with any city organized under the general law."

"It is further resolved: That we do hereby request the Legislature to remove this embargo upon the future growth and progress of cities governed by freeholder charters, by enacting new laws or amending present ones to allow such consolidation, and repealing all contrary laws."

"Be it further resolved by the Engineers' and Architects' Association of Southern California, that we do most earnestly request the Southern California members of the State Legislature to take vigorous action in this matter."

The association also passed a resolution to the effect that all civic bodies in this section publicly express themselves in favor of securing a great commercial harbor at San Pedro, "to be forever conserved to the best use and benefit of the people and be unrestricted by private control."

Other business was the election of officers for the ensuing year. The president is Capt. A. A. Fries; first vice-president, J. A. Brown; second vice-president, Homer Hamlin; secretary, H. Z. Osborne, Jr.; directors, F. D. Hudson, G. P. Robinson, D. S. Holladay and J. J. Brooks.

DOUBLE PLAY.

was sent to San Diego and there he was found at his home in National City, a suburb of the Bay City. When the warrant was read to him, he stated that it was a surprise to him, as he had no idea that there were any proceedings against him.

Taber stated emphatically that he had not accepted deposits after the bank of which he was president had become insolvent, and declared his willingness to face a trial on the charges.

One of the curious twists in this game of man-hunting that the Nevada sheriff participated in, was the fugitive-from-justice warrants issued by the District Attorney's office here to help hold the men for Nevada. These warrants, now that they have served their turn and the men are in custody, will be dismissed today. But by that time it is probable that the Nevada officer and his prisoners will be far on their way toward the little city in the desert mountains.

In every way the District Attorney's office has endeavored to keep the warrants and charges against Taber and Williamson secret for fear that the men would take warning and get out of the State, especially as Taber lived within a few minutes' walk of the Mexican boundary. But when Deputy Dist. Atty. W. J. Ford yesterday issued the fugitive warrants and heard that the men were in custody, he unhesitatingly told the men who were arrested.

It is stated on good authority that in case the Nevada indictments do not come up until the men are in custody, they will be charged with contempt of court.

KEEP HANDS OFF ALIENS.

Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association Denounces Any State Legislation.

The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, which includes in its membership more than 600 leading firms and corporations of the city, yesterday passed a resolution strongly condemning any State legislation involving the rights of aliens, especially the Japanese.

The resolution reads: "Whereas, the so-called Drew bill is now pending before the State Legislature, aiming to control the immigration and rights of aliens, especially the Japanese, and whereas, in our opinion, the Federal government is fully able to cope with a question involving national politics, and whereas, any act inimical to the Japanese, passed by the State Legislature, will seriously involve the national government, therefore, be it resolved by the board of directors of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Los Angeles, that we hereby request and urge the members of the State Legislature, now in session from Southern California, to vote against the passage of such bill, or any other bill which has for its object the abridgment of the rights of the Asiatic races, relying entirely upon the sound judgment of the Federal government to adjust those matters."

FROM PENNY TO PLENTY.

Frank Chesley, Three Years Ago Penniless, is Now Millionaire

(BY DIRECT WRIT TO THE TIMES)

TULSA (Okla.) Jan. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The marriage of Frank Chesley, millionaire oil operator, to Mrs. Jennie Hampton of Waco, Tex., recalls the remarkable history of Chesley. Three years ago he was a prospector without a cent to his name, no to raise money to satisfy his land lord for rent.

In the fall of 1904, he "teamed up" with Bob Galbreath, and on their nerve the two men started a "wild cat" on the Ida E. Olson farm, ten miles south of Redford, then the southern limit of oil production in the Creek Nation. Deeper and deeper the hole went into the ground, with no prospect of the magic oil sand, and the two men were discouraged.

Finally the end of the pile of coal was nearly reached, and still no oil in despair, Chesley, who was on the job alone that day, had been behind the derricks to grieve unheeded over the prospective failure, when Roy Dowd, the driller, brought the glad news that oil had been found. The strike, a seventy-five-barrel well, was the first well in the clean pool, the world's greatest field of oil today.

Within a year Chesley and Galbreath were reputed to have an income each of $25 a minute from oil. Their holdings are valued at several million dollars.

A large pay-as-you-enter trolley car in New York crashed into a Roosevelt Hospital ambulance Wednesday night, throwing out the driver, Bernard Kenna, who sustained a fractured leg, a man inside, who was being hauled to the hospital, suffering with a fractured skull, sustained no injury whatever. ## MANNER HURRED AWAY ON A FELONY CHARGE.

HECTOR W. BOWEN, lessee of the Elkhart mines in Kingman, Ariz., who fled suit against the mining company in the Superior Court last week for $40,000 damages, was arrested late yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with selling mining machinery which belonged to the company.

Requisition papers, which had been honored before Bowen was arrested, were presented at the City Jail by Sheriff Walter Brown of Kingman, the prisoner was hurried to the train and taken out of the State. His wife was notified of his arrest by telephone after the train had left, and his attorney, H. C. Dillon, knew nothing of his arrest until late last night.

In the arrest which Bowen fled against the company he asserts he was ejected by the owners of the property before his lease expired. He asks for damages on several counts, his claims amounting in all to $40,000. F. G. Wright, a broker of this city, was named as the defendant in the case, with several other stockholders, residing here and in San Francisco.

The warrant for Bowen's arrest was issued in Kingman the day after the suit was filed. Sheriff Brown was given the warrant together with requisition papers, and went to Sacramento, where the requisition was honored.

Bowen lives at No. 446 Lake street. It is understood that he asked to see his wife and his attorney, but was refused both requests. Bowen was unable to make a statement last night about the case. Action will be taken immediately, however, Mrs. Bowen says she believes the affair has been trumped up against her husband to force him to withdraw his civil suit.

IF I WERE MAYOR. BAZAAR OF NATIONS.

eral way I may say that my ideas are fixed, quite fixed.

I should either go myself or send some one into the den of vice which my paper is advertising every day, and I should take the matter up earnestly and firmly with the improper ladies there assembled.

I should say, "Girls, please be good. I insist, in fact, that you be perfect ladies from this time forth."

If, as has been suggested to me, these women should rudely retort that they have to be bad to live, I should gently correct them.

I should say: "Ladies, not at all. The thing for you to do is to abandon this tawdry life and organize yourself into an improvement club and have luncheons, and read papers to one another." The luncheons are quite satisfying to that settles your objection in regard to starving.

As to gamblers, I should say firmly to the Chief of Police: "Please arrest all gamblers at once."

If he should object on the ground that he is unable to get the required evidence before he can arrest them, I should say: "You will not need the required evidence, as the police judge can ask the Municipal League Secretary Willard of the Municipal League, Japanese, passed by the State Legislature, will seriously involve the national government, therefore, be it resolved by the board of directors of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Los Angeles, that we hereby request and urge the members of the State Legislature, now in session from Southern California, to vote against the passage of such bill, or any other bill which has for its object the abridgment of the rights of the Asiatic races, relying entirely upon the sound judgment of the Federal government to adjust those matters."

For those men who merely seem to want and have a chance of reform, I shall call them up and request them to kindly be good. If they dispute of being good or insist upon being bad, I shall request them to please read my editorials on the Des Moines idea and be saved.

This will be my general course, as the complications; but it will be subject to slight changes.

For instance, I intend to have an official whose duty it shall be to go to all the hotels every day and get the names of every one from Des Moines, Oklahoma, or other model towns; he will ask them to please come at once and tell us how to run the city.

I need hardly say that there will be no party politics whatever in my reign. In order to make it strictly non-partisan, I shall make all my appointments from the Lincoln-Roosevelt party.

I propose to abolish beer and to have champagne served only. Champagne for me!

Bridge whist will be substituted for dice at the cigar stands.

If I make any appointments, I will appoint my attorney, Mr. Handysen. I will appoint him to everything. Handysen doesn't get the appointment I will have myself recalled. Mr. Handysen is the only man in town who should be appointed to anything.

Then he makes a proposition to the effect that any depositor who wants his money right away, and does not care to wait for the realization of assets, are to register their names with A. H. Knowles, notary public, at No. 105 South Broadway, within three days from date. Those not registering he will consider favorable to his plans.

While studying the action of the various deadly maladies, animals are used for experimental purposes. Their bodies are poisoned by the germs; their blood, in favorable cases in which the animal does not die, sets up its protective influence, and in turn this blood, so transformed in the animal's body, becomes the requisite medicine to combat the disease, and is given to an actual patient that has the disease.

Take a look at the animal house at ing at theories; but is delving into all life to find out things that will be of importance to human life, when applied to man's body. For one thing, it would be a grand victory to learn just how the cell feeds itself—making this, rejecting that. The body composed of millions and trillions of these tiny cells; and, like man, these cells have their own cycles of life, passing from one state to another, then to old age, and to final death.

WHEN MR. LINCOLN FIRST MET GRANT.

Strange Physical Contrast of the Two Men Their First Interview Alone, and What Was Said by the Two Men.

BY HAMLIN GARLAND.

The following account of the first meeting of Lincoln and Grant—a meeting which marked the beginning of the friendship between the two men—is based on the testimony of eyewitnesses. Grant's own account of the meeting is given in his own words, and the story of the first meeting of the two great figures of the war is told in a way that is both interesting and instructive.

JUST as Grant's success at Vicksburg had brought him to the command of the army in the West, so his superb campaign at Chattanooga led to the thought that he was the one man in America to command in the East. Rightly or wrongly, the feeling grew that the leaders of movements in the East were insufficient. Grant was the man. Make him commander-in-chief in place of Halleck.

Halleck professed entire willingness to be deposed in Grant's favor. He said: "I took it against my will and shall be most happy to leave it as soon as another is designated to fill it." We have no time to quibble and contend for pride of personal opinion. On this subject there appears to be a better feeling among the officers of the West than here.

In general the demand was that Grant should lead the army of the Potomac against Lee. But a larger scheme was on foot. Washington introduced into the Congress a bill to promote Grant to the grade of lieutenant-general, which had been with Washington, though Gen. Scott had been in the West. The bill was passed by the House by a vote of 100 to 85, and the Senate by a vote of 23 to 17.

But the President was impatient to put Grant into the high place. He had himself to plan battles and adjudge the results. He was not content with the President's duties, until he was worn out. With a profound sigh of relief he signed the bill, and nominated Gen. Grant to be the lieutenant-general of the armies of the United States.

MODEST IN HIS HOUR OF FAME. Grant was at Nashville when an order came from the Secretary of War directing him to report in person to the War Department. He was not a man to be easily moved, but he went.

"Dear Sherman: The bill reviving the grade of lieutenant-general in the army has become a law, and my name has been sent to the Senate for its ratification. I start in the morning to comply with the order; but I shall say very distinctly on my arrival there that I accept no appointment which will require me to make that city my headquarters. This, however, is not what I started to write about."

"While I have been eminently successful in this war in at least gaining the confidence of the public, no one feels more than I how much of my success is due to the skill and energy, and the harmonious putting forth of that energy and skill of those whom it has been my good fortune to have occupying a subordinate position under me."

"There are many officers to whom these remarks are applicable to a greater or less degree, proportionate to their ability as soldiers, and what I want is to express my thanks to you and McPherson as the men to whom, above all others, I feel indebted for whatever I have had of success. How far your advice and suggestions have been of service you know. How far your execution of whatever has been given you to do satisfies you to the reward I am receiving, I cannot say, as well as I. I feel all the gratitude this letter can express, giving it the most flattering construction."

"The word 'you' I use in the plural, intending it for McPherson also. I should write him and tell him how much I am indebted to him, but starting in the morning I do not know that I will find time now. To this modest man, and his equally modest Sherman, I feel that the friendship between these three men was the most noble and unselfish character of the war. Sherman said (closing):

LINCOLN AND GRANT MEET.

Accompanied by Senator Cameron of Pennsylvania, he went to the White House to report to the President. Doubtless he would not have gone had he known that the President, in holding a reception, for he was in his everyday uniform, which was considerably worn and faded. The world had passed swiftly that Grant was in town and that he would call upon the President; therefore the crowd was denser than usual. They did not recognize him at first; but as the news spread, the President's door opened and those who stood beside the President heard it and turned toward the door. The crowd moved back, and left the two chief men of all the nation facing each other.

Lincoln took Grant's small hand heartily in his big clasp, and said, "I'm glad to see you, General."

TWO OF THE GREAT. There stood the supreme executive of the nation and the chief of its armies—the one tall, gaunt, almost formless, with wrinkles, warty nose, and deep, sorrowful eyes; the other compact, of good size, but looking small beside the President, his demeanor modest, almost timid, but in the broad, square head and in the close-cropped lips showing decision, resolution, and unconquerable bravery.

In some fateful way these two men, both in humble conditions, far from the center of the nation, the scholar, now stood together—the rail-splitter and the prop-hauler. In their hands was the fate of the nation, for any king on earth possessed. They came of the West, but they stood for the whole nation and for the Union. Grant passed on into the East Room, where the crowd hung itself upon him. He was cheered wildly, and the room was jammed with people. He was forced to stand on a sofa and show himself. The shaking brought streams of perspiration from his forehead and over his face. The hot room and the crowd and the excitement swelled every vein in his body, till he looked more like a soldier than a man. He was a hero in a drawing-room. There was something delightfully different and fresh and unspoiled about him, and words of surprise came way to phrases of affection. He was seen to be the plain man his friends claimed him to be: homespun, unaffected, sincere, and resolute.

LINCOLN MAKES GRANT LIEUTENANT-GENERAL.

He was relieved at last by the approach of a messenger who told him that Mrs. Lincoln's side. With her he made a tour of the room, followed by the President with a lady on his arm. Lincoln's rugged face beamed with interest in his new general-in-chief. This ended Grant's sufferings for the moment. He was now free to reach comparative privacy, said:

"I am to formally present you with your commission, and I feel that I have to say to you, 'Welcome to the army.' I have to say, 'I will be four or five sentences like you like you to say something in reply which will soften the feeling of jealousy among the officers and encourage the Union.'"

At last the general escaped from the close air of the room, and as he felt the cool wind on his face outside the White House, he wiped the sweat from his brow, drew a long breath of relief, and said: "I hope that ends the show business."

There were solemnity and a marked formality in the presentation of the commission. In the presence of the Cabinet, the President rose and stood facing Grant, beside whom was his little son and the mother of his staff. From a slip of paper the President read these words:

"Gen. Grant: The nation's appreciation of what you have done, and its reliance upon you for what remains to be done in this great struggle, are now presented with this commission constituting you lieutenant-general in the army of the United States. With this high honor devolves upon you also a corresponding responsibility. As the country herein trusts you, I sincerely need to add, that with what I here speak goes my hearty concurrence."

SPEED UP!

It's time to be the greatest ever. Dick Ferris told me so. Of course it's got to be the best, because it's in The Big White Store. That's our way—to be away ahead of everybody and everything. Say! Don't miss this Auto Show. See the finest machines made in the world—a whole acre of them. I guess the decorations are pretty good. The cars are white—4000 electric lights will gleam and sparkle. As Grant entered, a hush fell over the room. The crowd moved back, and left the two chief men of all the nation facing each other.

Returning to Nashville, he quickly made his dispositions. His own command there, Sherman was to take; and McPherson, Sherman's while Logan moved into McPherson's command. These men Grant felt that he could trust absolutely, and though disappointed rivals complained severely, it made no difference. Promptly at the end of his nine days he was back in Washington.

"THANK GOD, I'VE GOT A GENERAL AT LAST!"

On the day of his return he held his first interview with Lincoln alone. Lincoln said, in his half-humorous fashion: "I have never professed to be a military man, nor to know how campaigns should be conducted, and never wanted to interfere in them. But procrusteanism on the part of generals, and the pressure of the people at the North and of Congress, which is always with one, have forced me into issuing a series of military orders. I don't know but they were all wrong, and I'm pretty certain some of them were. All I wanted, or ever wanted, is some one to take the responsibility and act—and call on me for assistance. That was the substance of the interview, Grant replying simply: "I will do the best I can. Mr. President, with the heads at hand." He then returned to his headquarters at Chattanooga, and on the day of his return he held his first interview with Lincoln alone. Lincoln said, in his half-humorous fashion: "I have never professed to be a
